

Distribution in a model-driven age

New survey reveals why financial advisors use model portfolios — and the implications for asset managers.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Model portfolios continue to shape the distribution landscape.

As centralized research groups increasingly select funds for model portfolios, asset managers are shifting focus to a smaller audience of professional buyers at the home office. But asset managers can't lose sight of financial advisors.

One of the strongest forces currently reshaping the financial product distribution landscape is the increased usage of model portfolios. Understanding the forces that drive model adoption has profound implications for distribution strategies and resulting profitability.

This study provides insight into how and why financial advisors (FAs) use model portfolios. We found that asset manager resources are broadly relied upon to shape portfolios that are constructed and managed in-house. Moving forward, asset managers looking to capture model-driven fund and ETF assets will need to strengthen FA messaging, education and ongoing support.

THE RESEARCH

Broadridge conducted a survey of 500 financial advisors with at least $10M AUM, revealing:

Why advisors choose model portfolios

Whether and to what extent model portfolio use will grow

How client AUM affects model portfolio use

How models impact relationships between asset managers and advisors

This survey is one component of a more comprehensive study that also includes proprietary model distribution data and interviews with distribution heads. The full report will be available this summer.

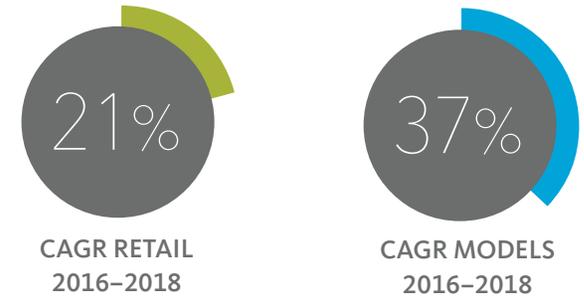

Model portfolios are not merely a trend—they've become industry standard. Here's why:

- ▶ Home offices can exert greater control over investment processes, helping to boost portfolio performance and improve asset retention.
- ▶ Investors can access superior investment management at a comparatively lower cost.
- ▶ Advisors can offload day-to-day asset management responsibility to focus on strengthening relationships and growing their business.

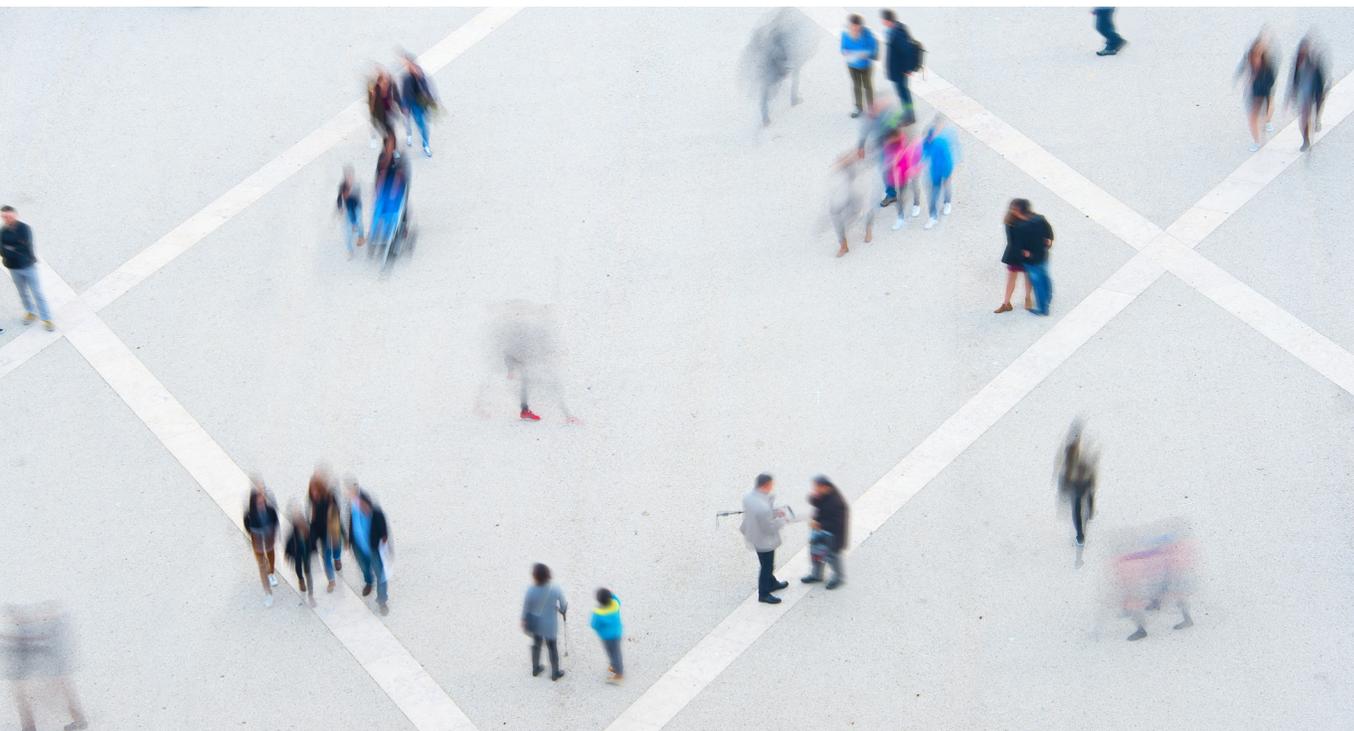

By the numbers:

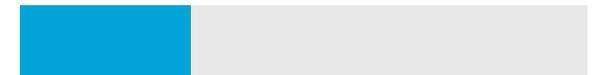

MODELS ARE FUELING OVERALL ETF GROWTH.

Advisors say model portfolios enable more efficient business growth.

“allows more time to spend on client-facing activities”

“allows more time for financial planning”

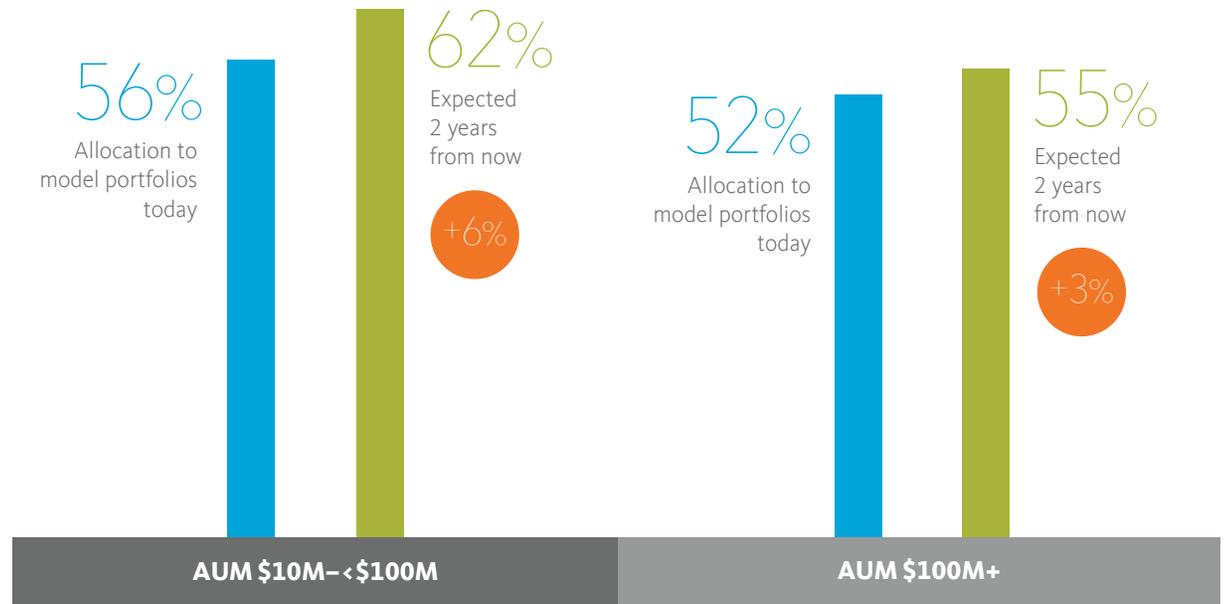

“clients care more about planning, service and support than outperforming the market”

Top 5 reasons advisors cite for using models.

- 1 Business scalability
- 2 Ability to leverage investment management expertise
- 3 Focus efforts on client acquisition/retention
- 4 Better address compliance/regulations
- 5 More stringent manager due diligence

In the next two years the use of models is expected to rise faster among advisors with lower AUM.

It's not easy for advisors to balance business development with portfolio management. Rather than analyzing every position, a growing number of advisors rely on models to manage assets, so they can focus on client building and retention strategies.

Advisors who employ model portfolios are overwhelmingly satisfied with this approach.

PERCENTAGE AGREE WITH THE STATEMENT

93%

"I am happy with my decision to use models."

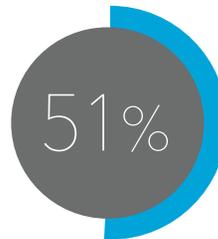

91%

"Models have allowed me to devote more time to client-facing challenges."

Why do some advisors prefer custom portfolios as their business model?

"managing money is part of my value-add with clients"

"clients are paying for customized solutions"

Models are the preferred approach for clients with lower AUM.

Base: Use model portfolios

Asset managers should consider creating more sophisticated models that may attract higher-end investors.

Technology is making it easier to leverage models in-house, but FAs express reservations because of potentially negative investor perceptions.
